

Mobix Labs Secures $1 Million-Plus Threat-Detection Sensor Order

September 17, 2026

Follow-On Production Order Supports Next-Generation Security Platform

IRVINE, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Sep. 17, 2026-- Mobix Labs, Inc. (Nasdaq: MOBX) today announced a multi-unit follow-on production order in excess of $1 million for advanced RF sensing subsystems from a leading security-technology provider.

The order, placed with the company's RaGE Systems division, supports a U.S. government security program focused on detecting concealed threats. Multiple Mobix Labs sensing subsystems are integrated into each of the customer's next-generation threat-detection platforms.

The order follows previous production orders for the same program and reflects growing worldwide demand for advanced threat-detection platforms, in which these sensors are a critical component.

The subsystems are designed and manufactured in the United States as Mobix Labs continues expanding its security, defense and mission-critical electronics business.

Forward-Looking Statements

This press release contains forward-looking statements, including statements regarding the production and delivery of units under the order, potential follow-on orders and future demand for Mobix Labs' products.
